2. The meeting was called at the request of Mr. Pearcy as a result of new developments stemming from the separation of the domestic names work under the Geological Survey. Mr. Pearcy felt that the general situation had deteriorated following the Secretary of Interior sidirective assigning the domestic names duties to the Geological Survey and setting up a separate executive secretary for this work. attempting to pursuade Mr. Carmichael, Smithsonian Institute, to take over the functions of both foreign and domestic name work as a result of permission from the Department of the Interior to find a new location for this activity. The representative of the Geological Survey desires to separate out completely domestic name work in line with the aforementioned directive, and to create a separate executive secretary to serve both at the committee level and board level.

3. Dr. Guthe and I had previously discussed this matter over the telephone and he presented our consolidated views: that there should be two executive secretaries, one for domestic names (Geological Survey appointee) and one for foreign names was a second, each of whom would serve both at the committee and board levels in their respective fields. The Board on Geographic Names would continue to function in accordance with the basic act and would deal with both domestic and foreign names policies. It was our position that the new set-up would reflect the actual situation created by the Secretary of the Interior in assigning the domestic names function to the Geological Survey.

Turther discussion by all present brought out no new aspects, and the meeting adjourned with the general feeling that this would be the way in which the new organisation should be set forth by the Board in revising its by-laws, so the form of the laws, so the laws, so the laws of the laws, so the laws of the laws of the laws.

5. It might be added that from a legal as well as from a factual point of view it would be desirable from this Agency's viewpoint to have complete separation of duties inasmuch as the funds provided by the Agency under the NIS program can be used legally only fer foreign names work, which has not been the case in the past when was executive secretary for both demostic and foreign names works.
